CONFLICT OF INTEREST COMPLIANCE ARTICLE 2

As is standard in scholarly publishing, NCSBN’s Journal of Nursing Regulation (JNR) requires its authors to disclose any potential conflicts of interest (COI). Although COI information has always been collected by our staff in order to support editors’ review of the paper, it was not our standard practice to publish COI statements in each article. In this issue, JNR is retrospectively publishing the COI statements, which were collected with the below papers at submission, in order to make potential COIs transparent to readers, as well as editors.

1. “Passage of New York State Legislation Mandating Academic Progress Toward the Bachelor of Science in Nursing Degree” [Journal of Nursing Regulation, 2018;9(2):14-8] doi.org/10.1016/S2155-8256(18)30112-1 Declaration of competing interest: The authors were contacted after publication to request a Declaration of Interest statement.
